The front and back covers of the fifteenth issue of Tricontinental are dedicated to one of the most efficient weapons used by the monopolists and the bourgeoisie in their bold determination to maintain their privileges: the mass means of communication which, as far as we are concerned, become instruments of misinformation. The Chilean journalist Hernán Uribe writes on precisely this theme for our readers, in Experiences and Facts. "Misinformation, an Imperialist Industry"—title of his interesting work—offers revealing information on the role of the press, films, radio, and television in the preservation of the interests of the monopolists and their servants.

In the same section the Africa Research Group documents the work of Zionist penetration on the African continent. "Israel: Imperialist Mission in Africa" denounces—for the most part with facts from official sources—the use of the Zionist State as a Trojan horse, to mask the interventionist policies of the United States in this part of the world.

In Land of Ideas the dishonesty of the North American Government's proposals concerning the Viet-Nam aggression are exposed. In "Viet-Nam: Nixon's Maneuvers," a worthy voice of her staunch people, Mme Nguyen Thi Binh, Minister of Foreign Relations of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Viet-Nam and head of the National Liberation Front's delegation to the Paris talks, exposes the aggressive core of the United States President's announced plans for "the solution of the Vietnamese problem."

In Man and His Word, we offer an extensive interview with two young North American journalists, Michael Locker and Allen Young, who discuss the participation
